Scripture History, or Contemplations on the Historical Passages of the Old and New Testaments (Classic Reprint) Joseph Hall

The name of Joseph Hall, Bishop of Norwich, is remembered with veneration at the distance of two centuries from the period in which he flourished. Few, if any, of the fathers of the English Church have left behind them such illustrious memorials of learning, piety, and unwearied industry in the cause of truth. The blamelessness of his life the fervor of his charity the variety and importance of his theological writings, have been so many irresistible claims on posterity to preserve him from the oblivion into which most of his contemporaries have fallen. A wise and judicious writer of his own times, Sir Henry Wotton, distinguished him as the Christian Seneca. He might have proceeded further. He might have called him the Chrysoslom of England. The life and sufferings of this eminent servant of God have been so carefully transmitted to the present times, that it will here be sufficient simply to mention, that he was born at Ashby de la Zouch, A. D. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and don't occur in the book.)
