One Shining Moment: The Real Life adventures of a Volunteer Police Officer Bill Kasal

Picture a darkened alley. A scream. A gun shot.

You wouldn't go down that alley for a million bucks. A cop does it for a lot less. A Reserve Officer does it for free.

Could you work your day job and then become a police officer at night? How easily could you go from "Hi! How may I help you?" to "Stop! Keep your hands where I can see them!"

In this book you'll feel what it's like to live in a different world... What's it's like when a radio station Promotions Director/DJ gets a gun, night stick and pepper spray... and a badge... and then attempts to uphold the law.

All over the country, men and women volunteer their time--and risk their lives--as reserve police officers. They come from all walks of life. Ride along with the author in this real life adventure. See what the world looks like through the windshield of a police car.

Excerpt: The Stu and I turned our gaze up the street, along the direction of her arm, where we saw a young African-American male. This gentleman appeared to be in his mid-20s. He was wearing only blue jeans and was carrying about four feet of a broken shovel handle. And he was striding towards us with a purpose. And this is where it happened. This is the one shining moment in my life where I did it right; where every move I made sang in perfect harmony with the Universe. Every move was exquisitely coordinated grace, every muscle a seamless choreography of precision, every motion a picture of exactitude.
