Jesus' World: Romans, Priests, Crowds, Dusty Roads, Scrambled Eggs and All Charles A. Sennewald
Two thousand years ago, God became human and walked the earth. While still God, Jesus was like us, experiencing the trials of human existence, the reality of material needs-hunger, cold, pain, and thirst. While people today share many commonalities with Christ, the modern world is very different from the Roman-controlled Middle East. Wouldn't faith be strengthened if people had a deeper and more meaningful understanding of the time and place that God lived as a man? In Jesus' World: Romans, Priests, Crowds, Dusty Roads, Scrambled Eggs and All, Charles A. Sennewald and Patricia Casey invite readers more directly into the life of Christ. Follow the authors over the unpaved roadways of Judea, Samaria, and Galilee. Based in Scripture, Jesus' World shows the Holy Land as inhabited by Christ and His apostles, and in plain language reduces the gulf between the world of Jesus' experiences and today, helping readers feel what He felt, marvel at His insight, and walk in His footprints. Jesus' World can help you improve your understanding of Jesus and the world around him and strengthen your faith.
